

cue: John...my money comes from working
Good day!

Lining My Pockets

No. 19

Hickman:

Melva Wheelwright
August 21, 2001

Prideful (♩ = 150)

Hickman: You'll eat those words, John Horner.
You certainly will! (angily) That John Hor - ner

6
thinks he's fine. Didnt get his pocket change from a mine. Well, at that game

10 allargando two can play. I'll get my pock - et change a - no - ther way! (cocky) Lin - ing my a tempo
a tempo

14

pock - ets with some - one el - se's toil. Snatch it here and there.

18

Peo - ple un - a ware, with - out dir - ty - ing your hands in the soil. Lin - ing my pock - ets has al - ways been my creed. A good deed a day is 26

22

what you say? I re - com - mend plain old GREED! Hor - ner

30

gives his mon- ey to ev - 'ry one in need, but if false deeds spring

34

allargando a tempo but slightly slower now up like weeds, Where's he going to plant his po- ta - to seeds? Spoken: Prime land for sale. Fenced and planted!

39

Customer: That price is outrageous! Hickman: On the contrary! Wire fencing, a thousand a mile ..for the previous owner.

44

back to first tempo

It's a steal....truly! You hav -n't got a lot? I'll takeall you've got. You'll be o-ver joyed with what you've bought! I'll take my share of life be - fore the rain, be -

48

51

allargando a tempo primo

fore the e - con - o - my goes down the drain..... Lin - ing my poc - kets with some - one el - se's toil. Who'll win out in the end?

54

58

high note optional

Let me tell you, friend. A - var - i - cious me!